War Summary of The Latest Events

Roumania's first war bulletins indicate that Roumanian troops have crossed the summit of the Transylvanian Alps, occupied the Tomos Pass, south of Kronstadt, and are now holding a position on the foothills three miles from Kronstadt. During these operations 734 prisoners have been taken after what the despatch speaks of as "fairly lively fighting." The rapidity with which the Roumanians have occupied the chief pass through the mountain barrier walling off Transylvania from the south gives an air of probability to the statement from Berlin that certain parts of Transylvania are to be evacuated by the Austro-Hungarian troops in order to shorten their line of defence.

Vienna, in an official report dealing with later events than those referred in the Bucharest despatch, practically admits evacuation in the statement that "in accordance with plans provided for a long time ago in case of war" the Austrian troops have been withdrawn from the frontier step by step. "The enemy," it is added, "will boast of having occupied Petroseny, Kronstadt and Kozdi Vasarhely." The first-mentioned town is far to the west of the Tomos Pass, and well over the summit. To reach it the Roumanians traversed the Vulcan Pass, 7,194 feet high, before descending the northern slope of the range. There have been artillery actions along the Danube, during one of which Roumanian shells destroyed a petroleum depot in Orsova. Germany has been drawing from Roumania's oil fields most of the petroleum used for motors operating on her various battle-fronts. The cutting off of these supplies will be one of the most serious results of Roumania's adhesion to the Entente.

An intimate view of the Roumanian army is given by a New York business man who spends much of his time in the Balkans, and has lived in the Roumanian oil region for the past eighteen months: "The army is one of the best officered armies in the world. I say this without qualification. As regards the soldiers I know of none, except, perhaps, those of Japan, who are so hardy and healthy. In the oil fields we employ thousands of these big peasants, and it is a common thing for a workman to walk twelve miles through the snow to his work, work eleven hours, and then walk back home at night. The principal food of the Roumanian army is a dish they call 'marmeliga' which is nothing but boiled corn meal.

to walk twelve miles through the

and then walk back home at night.
The principal food of the Roumanian army is a dish they call 'marmeliga', which is nothing but boiled corn meal.
With this they have dried meats, cas-sacal, which is cheese made from goats' milk, and dried fish, with a little tea or coffee on the side. These things are plentiful in Roumania, and the 'menu' is itself the best proof of the simple problem that confronts Roumania when it comes to the subsistence of her fighting men." These are the troops who are now swarming over the mountain ranges of Transylvania to emancipate three million people of their own race from the agelong oppression of the Magyars. They are likely to make a thorough job of it.

Germany shows increasing signs of overstrain. It is announced that all officials of military age hitherto exempted from active service because declared indispensable to the efficient carrying on of the public service are now being submitted to medical examination. Such as found fit must take their places in the ranks. This measure indicates that Germany's reserves are exhausted, and that to meet the new conditions created by Roumania's accession to the Allied cause practically every German capable of bearing arms is to be sent to the front.

Another evidence of strain is the dismissal of von Falkenhayn from the supreme command of Germany's armies, which he held as chief of the General Staff, and the appointment of von Hindenburg, the national military hero, to that high office. Falkenhayn thus pays the price for toadying to the Emperor and Crown Prince. He consented to the Verdun enterprise at the urgent request of the latter despite the reported strong protests of Hindenburg, Mackensen and many other experienced leaders who were not courtiers, and considered only the military aspect of the projected campaign, and were not greatly concerned about giving the Crown Prince another chance to distinguish himself.
Verdun has proved the grave of Falkenhayn's reputation, and now Hindenburg rises to the position of supreme power. His first step has been to clean house. Thirty generals have been relieved of their commands, according to cables from Holland, and new men have been chosen to take their places. Among the new-old officers who have received high commands is von Bernhardt, the famous military writer, who had much to do in planting the idea of world conquest in the German mind. He goes to the Kovel sector of the Volhynian front, where the menace of the barbaric Slav will be more than a phrase-maker's well-turned sentence.

Turkey's declaration of war on Rou-mania affords evidence of how completely the Turkish Government is dominated by Germany. Roumania has no quarrel with Turkey, and cannot hope to expand at her expense.
Bulgaria lies between Turkey in Europe and the Roumanian frontier, but because Turkey has still some available troops, which are being sent to the aid of the Bulgars and the Austrians by the German masters of Constantinople, it becomes necessary to regularize the situation by a declaration of war. The assertion is made that 120,000 Turks are to be used in the defence of Bulgaria from attacks along the Danube or across the Dob-days in Kingston.

ROUMANIANS STRIKE AT FOE

Germany Has Declared War Upon Roumania.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Following immediately upon the heels of the declaration of war against Austria-Hungary on Saturday night, Roumanian forces have begun the invasion of Transylvania. A Vienna despatch received here Monday night reports officially that the first clashes between troops of Roumania and the central powers occurred Sunday night, in south-eastern and eastern frontier passes of Hungary. The attacks by the Roumanians are described in the statement as "treacherous." Roumanian prisoners were taken, it is asserted. Advance guards of the two forces came into contact at Rothenthurm Pass, 15 miles south of Hermannstadt, Transylvania, and in the passes south of Kronstadt (Brasso), the statement adds.

Kronstadt and Hermannstadt, toward which the Austrian official communication indicates the Roumanians are making their first efforts at an advance, are two of the most important cities in Transylvania. They are near the southern border of Hungary, the former about six miles from the Roumanian frontier and the latter about 15 miles from the frontier. Kronstadt is 70 miles east-southeast of Hermannstadt.

The City of Kronstadt is the most important commercial and manufacturing centre of Transylvania. It has a population of approximately 41,000. Hermannstadt is a former capital of Transylvania, and lies near the River Zibin. It has a population of 33,000. Roumanians make up a large part of the population of both cities.

The first announcement of Roumanians' declaration of war on Austria-Hungary came from Berlin Monday as follows:

"The Roumanian Government yesterday evening declared war on Austria-Hungary. The federal council has been convoked for an immediate sitting."

An official statement issued in Berlin and forwarded by Reuter's correspondent at Amsterdam, says:

"After Roumania, as already reported, disgracefully broke treaties concluded with Austria-Hungary and Germany, she declared war yesterday against our ally."

"The Imperial German minister to Roumania has received instructions to request his passports and to declare to the Roumanian Government that Germany now likewise considers herself at war with Roumania."

It is estimated that the effective strength of the army which can be mobilized by Roumania is about 900,000 men, including 10 regiments of the Red Hussars and 10 of the Black Hussars, and with artillery aggregating 400 75 millimetre guns, 175 field guns, and an unknown number of heavy guns, says a Paris despatch.

ITALY TAKES BIG STEP

She Is Now Directly at War
With Germany.

Germany's Aid to Austria Forced Italy to Declare Hostilities—Announcement Causes Great Demonstrations in Rome—Baron Sonnino Delivers the Message Through Switzerland.

ROME, Aug. 29.—Yesterday Italy started war against Germany.

The declaration of hostilities was made by Italy. Following information that it had reached the Imperial German Government through Switzerland, announcement of the Government's action was made here late Sunday.

The intolerable situation created by the fact that Italy was at war with Germany's ally and the fact that Germany loaned all possible support to that ally, Austria-Hungary, against Italians and their interests, led the Government to its decision. That decision was made public in the following announcement:

"The Italian Government declares in the name of the King that Italy considers herself to be in a state of war with Germany as from August 28, and begs the Swiss Government to convey this information to the Imperial German Government."

The complete cessation of all communication between Italy and Germany brought about by the Austro-Italian war, made it necessary for Italy to convey through Switzerland her declaration of war to Germany.

It is believed here that Roumania, with which nation Italy long has had an entente, will follow the Italian Government in a declaration of war against the Central Empires and their allies.

The Giornale D'Italia, commenting on the declaration of war on Germany, says:

"Public opinion has been long patiently awaiting war against Germany, and is now fully satisfied. The declaration constitutes an act of sincerity and loyalty towards the Allies and a proof of our deep faith in their final victory."

Idea Nazionale says: "Italy rejoices over the end of an equivocal and humiliating situation, and is welcoming the opportunity openly to fight the common enemy to the finish."

Following a meeting of the Cabinet the official announcement of a state of war between Italy and Germany was made. A statement, giving the reasons for the action of the Italian Government, also was given out by Baron Sonnino, Minister of Foreign Affairs. It is in the form of a communication to Switzerland, a neutral, and was transmitted through the Italian Minister at Berne. It says:

"The hostile acts of Germany toward Italy have become more frequent. Suffice it to mention the persistent military aid rendered to Austria, and the constant participation of German officers, soldiers, and sailors in the war against Italy."

"Owing to German help Austria-Hungary was enabled to concentrate her maximum efforts against Italy. Germany gave up Italian prisoners who had escaped from Austrian concentration camps into German territory. The Imperial Government in-

Strike Orders Issued to Railwaymen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—The 640 chairmen of the railway brother-hoods who were called to Washington by President Wilson in the hope of averting a strike, held a meeting in the Bijou Theatre Sunday and resolved to go home. Sealed instructions, known as "strike orders," were issued to each of them, telling them what to do in case a strike is declared.

A subcommittee, consisting of about 30 men, was appointed, with full power to effect a settlement if such a thing is still possible. The committee was specifically instructed, however, that it has no power to accept terms of settlement that provide for arbitration of the question of an eight-hour day with ten hours' pay.

Wheat and Oat Crop Record.

CALGARY, Alta., Aug. 29.—With ideal weather over all the province the farmers are harvesting the second largest wheat and oats crop in the history of this portion of the Canadian west. Some fields will run 50 bushels to the acre. Many will run 40 to 50, while the average, say the best informed grain men, will be above 35 bushels to the acre for all the province. The oat fields were never so good.

Fell Beneath Troop Train.

TORONTO, Aug. 29.—Thrown beneath the wheels of one of the coaches of a moving troop train by a rush of spectators who were saying farewell to soldiers leaving for Camp Borden at the West Toronto station Sunday, baby Harry Weis, the three-year-old son of Maurion Weis, of 57 Hook avenue, had his right foot so terribly mangled that it was necessary to amputate it a few hours later in the Hospital for Sick Children.

Gains by Italians in the Carnic Alps.

ROME, Aug. 29.—In the Carnic
Alps the Italians pushed forward Saturday, taking Austrian positions on Cita Vallone, the War Office announced Sunday. No revival of activity is reported on the Isonzo front, where a lull has followed the Italian offensive which resulted in the capture of Gorizia and territory further south.

Catarrh Cannot Be Cured

with LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.
Hall's Catarrh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years.
It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarrh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarrhal conditions. Send for testimonials, free.

Germany gave up Italian prisoners who had escaped from Austrian concentration camps into German territory. The Imperial Government instructed the banks to consider Italians as enemies, stopping payments and also stopping pension: Due Italian workmen, violating the law openly and revealing systematic hostility.

"This state of things was intolerable, aggravating and wholly to Italy's detriment, the situating resulting from the fact that Italy and Germany are allied to different groups of States at war.

"For these reasons the Italian Government declared in the name of the King that Italy considers herself in a state of war with Germany from August 28, requesting the Swiss Government to inform Germany."

The announcement of war with Germany had the most cheering effect possible on the people. Great crowds formed in the streets immediately the news became public and processions were started in many sections of Rome. Reports from the provincial cities tell of equal rejoicing throughout the nation.

MUCH TERRITORY GAINED.

Grand Duke's Troops Have Made a Further Advance.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—The official statement from Petrograd of the Russian operations on the Caucasus front announces that a very considerable amount of territory has been recaptured from the Turks as a result of the recently inaugurated offensive which was begun by the forces of the Grand Duke, and a further advance has been made. In the direction of Diarbekr stubborn fighting continues, the report states. The Russian columns have reached the Maslada-rasi River, which flows into the Euphrates east of the village of Nurik.

New Zealand's War Tax.

OTTAWA, Aug. 29.—A radical scheme of war taxation is outlined in the second war budget, which has been presented to the New Zealand House of Representatives, according to a report presented to the Trade and Commerce Department by Commissioner Beddoe, of Auckland. An income tax and a 45 per cent. tax on all profits realized from war conditions are among the measures proposed.

Kent Good Roads Plans.

CHATHAM, Aug. 29.—A special roads committee of the County Council has returned from Wayne County, Michigan, where concrete highways were inspected. The committee gained valuable information and will report at the December session. It is expected that some definite action will be taken at that time by the Council towards adopting a good roads scheme for Kent County.

and watered; $11.90 to $12, weighed off cars.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

MONTREAL, Aug. 28.—The market for cattle was fairly active today, the feeling being steady owing to the smaller receipts and the cooler weather prevailing. The supply of good to choice steers was limited, for which there was a fair demand, and sales of odd lots of the former were made at $8.25 to $8.50, and the latter at $7.75 to $8, but the bulk of the trading was done in stock ranging from $6.75 to $7.50 per 100 pounds. The demand from packers for canning stock was good, and the trade in this respect was active, with sales of bulls at $4.75 to $5 and cows at $4 to $4.50 per 100 pounds.

There was a good demand for all lines of small meat. Demand was principally for lambs. Calves were scarce and higher, good to choice stock selling at 8 to 9c and common lots at 4½ to 6c per pound.

Prices for hogs scored a further decline of 25c per 100 pounds, with prospects of going still lower in the near future.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Cattle—Receipts

Horse Power

From This Power MAXWELL ENGINE

Almost 34 horse-power from this regular stock Maxwell engine!

34 actual, brake horse-power!

Proved by an accurate dynamometer test, made in the Maxwell laboratories August 10, 1916.

There has been a lot of talk about horse-power, and we just want to let Maxwell owners and prospective owners know that in respect to horse-power, as in most other respects, the Maxwell leads by a comfortable margin. Not that we attach such great importance to horse-power. We don't. We never have.

Horse-power—abundant horse-power—is only one of many superior features of the Maxwell.

We are selling motor cars—complete motor cars—not engines or horse-power.

Horse-power is a matter that is secondary to motor efficiency and economy.

A giant has no advantage if he does not apply, or wrongly applies, his strength.

Maxwell cars have horse-power you want or need—probably more pound of car weight than any automobile in the world.

But we don't make any loud claims about it.

Because we have more than enough power to sell you.

Because you are, and should be interested in results, the net effective power.

We challenge competitive tests and invite comparison.

Because we absolutely know that no car of its class or weight can outperform the Maxwell on speedways, on roads, through sand or mud, and in any condition.

And because we know, and you know, that, everything considered, Maxwell is the World's Greatest Car Value!

Youthful Diplomat.

Billy, aged four, greeted his mother at the door with the confession that he had done precisely what she had told him not to do. His mother was in doubt as to the exact punishment merited. The confession deserved praise, but there was no excuse for the disobedience. To gain time she sent him into the next room to think over what he believed ought to be done.

Presently the little fellow returned and said very seriously, "Mother, you do what you want, but in Sunday school they teach us to forgive. Do not forget that."

Needless to say he escaped punishment.

Relativity of Space.

It so happened that a new professor of music had just been installed in a certain college for women. Naturally he was the subject of a heated discussion among his pupils to be. Said one: "Handsome! Why, his nose and the point of his chin nearly meet."

"My dear," cautioned his champion, with dignity, "why do you exaggerate so? You know as well as I that they're miles apart."

A TERROR OF THE SEAS.

This Fish Resembles a Torpedo and is Just as Dangerous.

His shape resembles a torpedo, and his attack too. Fishermen and bathers in seas where he is found regard him as almost as deadly as the torpedo and far more common in peaceful waters. Fishermen and fish alike are enemy to him, and he will attack with a ferocity surpassing even the shark. He's called the barracuda.

His body is long and round, and his head pointed. His wide mouth bristles with large, sharp teeth. There are more than a dozen varieties scattered over the oceans, all of them fierce and hungry.

Sometimes they grow to a length of six to eight feet. These giants are the ones dreaded by the fishermen. Even when they have him fast on the end of a hook and line he's a veritable load of dynamite and will attack and bite and snap at the hands that are hauling him in.

Fishermen have to guard against poisoned flesh in the barracuda. Sometimes the big fish eats a poisonous kind of fish, which in turn poisons its own flesh. The barracuda's bite is regarded as poisonous in itself, and the wounds caused by the giant fish's teeth become inflamed and infected.

Henry James' Style.

Stevenson spotted the unconscionable repetition of certain adjectives in "Roderick Hudson," but probably the most marked characteristic of Henry James' style was his passion for adverbs and adverbial clauses. He was the most adverbial of English writers. You will find more adverbs to the page than even in Meredith. And he had a quaint habit of putting the adverb before the verb when most writers would put it after. One of his ladies (the examples are taken at random) "thankfully felt," another "quite beautifully and tenderly smiled." And "after all" crops up all over the place. But one would not have these things altered; they were part of the man. One does object to them, however, in his imitators, who have learned the trick, but missed the spirit behind it.—London Chronicle.

World's Future Fish Supply.

The sea beats upon 26,000 miles of Alaska shore line, a distance greater than the circumference of the earth. All of that vast stretch of waters is teeming with the most edible fish on earth. Every bay is a harbor where these fish can be prepared for the markets of the world, and the greatest ships afloat can anchor in safety while taking on their cargo of food for the hungry of all climes. In a few years Alaskan fish will be famous wherever ships sail and men exchange the products of their toil. This is but one of Alaska's sources of wealth.

GIRL COULD NOT WORK

How She Was Relieved from Pain by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Taunton, Mass.—"I had pains in both sides and when my periods came I had to stay at home from work and suffer a long time. One day a woman came to our house and asked my mother why I was suffering. Mother told her that I suffered every month, and she said, 'Why don't you buy a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?'"

My mother bought it and the next month I was so well that I worked all the month without staying at home a day. I am in good health now and have told lots of girls about it."—Miss CLARICE MORIN, 22 Russell Street, Taunton, Mass.

Thousands of girls suffer in silence every month rather than consult a physician. If girls who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, headache, dragging-down sensations, fainting spells or indigestion would take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a safe and pure remedy made from roots and herbs, much suffering might be avoided.

Perfectly Qualified.

"I have called," remarked the aggressive young person in the checked suit, "in answer to your advertisement for a man to sell refrigerators to the Eskimos."

"Well," said the man behind the desk, "what makes you think you can fill the bill?"

"I know I can," said the applicant breezily. "I spent last summer very successfully retailing 'The Lives of the Saints' to residents of the city of New York."

Pinched Him Financially.

An esteemed citizen went into a shoe store in a metropolitan town and asked to see some leather goods. Another minute an obliging salesman was hauling out some boxes.

"That's a nice looking shoe," remarked the customer as the salesman pushed his foot into a shiny right and started to lace it. "What is the price?"

"This pair is $8," responded the salesman as he finished the lacing and ran his hand across the vamp. "Does it pinch you any?"

"Well, I should say that it does!" was the prompt rejoinder of the customer. "Give me something about $5 cheaper."

"Taylor once compared a disgruntled brother consul to a Dry Run housewife.

" 'This woman,' he said, 'often took a queer, disgruntled view of things. Thus she said one day:

" 'He wa'n't no good to his family,' said her husband.

" 'That's a fact,' said the Dry Run woman. 'But when he got home, all the same, he knowed enough to keep his mouth shut. If he'd been like the twentieth century man the first thing he'd done would 'a' been to find fault with the way the fatted calf was cooked.' "

The Lavish Jenkins.

In October, 1886, a religiously minded Buckinghamshire farmer named Jenkins brought his firstborn to the parish church to be christened, and this was to be the name: Abel Benjamin Caleb Daniel Ezra Felix Gabriel Haggai Isaac Jacob Kish Levi Manoaah Nehemiah Obadiah Peter Quartus Rechab Samuel Tobiah Uzziel Vaniah Word Xystus Zechariah. It will be observed that the names are all arranged in alphabetical order and are as far as possible selected from Scripture. It was only with the very greatest difficulty that the clergyman dissuaded Mr. Jenkins, but eventually it was decided to christen the boy simply Abel.—Chambers' Journal.

Welsh Red Indians.

Eight or nine hundred years ago a band of adventurous Welshmen landed on the American coast and planted a colony. They never went back, and, according to Mr. James McLaughlin in "My Friend the Indian," "became in some sort the ancestors of a tribe of Indians, for the Mandans are thought by some writers to be the descendants of the lost Welshmen. Some philologists have endeavored to prove this to their own satisfaction, and it is said that the Mandans to this day retain in their vocabulary a great many distinctly Welsh words. And for hundreds of years they maintained physical and mental characteristics that have raised them above their fellows."

Languages in Switzerland.

Both French and German are the "official" languages of Switzerland. Public signs, such as those of railroads, are printed in both languages. Italian is also spoken in those parts of Switzerland which are closest to Italy. As a matter of fact, the country is, however, quite definitely divided as to language. The cantons of Vaud, Neuchâtel, Geneva, Fribourg and most of Valais speak French. The canton of Ticino speaks Italian. The rest of the country speaks preponderantly German. The canton of Valais has different districts, where each of the three languages is spoken.

Film Realism.

"Do you suppose that was a real brick he hit that man with?" asked the sweet young thing as she and her young man sat watching the motion picture comedy.

"Of course it was," replied her escort. "You don't suppose after paying an actor $10,000 a week they'd be such tightwads as to ring in a fake brick on him, do you?"

Chaldean Tablets.

The clay tablets of Chaldea, probably the very earliest writing materials used by man, were of different sizes, the largest being flat and measuring 9 by 6½ inches, while the smallest were slightly convex and in some cases not more than an inch long. In the same ruins with the tablets have been found the glass lenses which were used by their readers. The writing was done while the tablets were still soft by a little iron tracer, not pointed, but triangular at the end. The tablets, having been inscribed on both sides and accurately numbered, were baked in ovens and stored away in the state libraries.

Self Complacency.

"A man should pause every now and then and take stock of himself," said the genial philosopher.

"That's all right for a modest man," replied the student of human nature, "but rather a bad plan for the sort of fellow who rates himself a little higher every time he does it."

The Sycamore.

One of the very best trees for street planting is the oriental plane or sycamore. Because of its many good qualities it is rapidly coming into general favor. It bears a heavy crop of large scalloped leaves, which remain on the tree until late autumn, long after other trees have cast their foliage. This variety of sycamore has a stocky trunk, which branches, and a spreading, round topped head.—Tree Talk.

Blooming Cheek.

"See that girl over there? She's the girl I was engaged to last year, and the engagement was broken off."

"Did you get your ring back?"

"Get it back? Why, three months afterward she wrote me asking if I wouldn't have the stone reset for her."

Seems Strange.

Patience—The Russian language looks as if it would be extremely difficult to speak.

Patience—It does indeed.

"And yet the strange part of it is that the Russian child begins to talk as soon as an American."

Safety First.

"I hope the motto of this railroad is safety first."

"It is," replied the man who thinks only of pecuniary precaution. "I notice it never lets anybody travel a mile without paying in advance."

Self trust is the first secret of success.—Emerson.

ROUMANIA ENTERS WAR AGAINST THE TEUTONS

London, Aug. 28th.—The Roumanian troops to-night are fighting on Austro-Hungarian soil, following the declaration of war by Roumania upon Austria.

"Almost the entire Roumanian army is rapidly moving" says a despatch from Lausanne to the Daily News. The Swiss frontier has been closed.

FIGHT FOR TWO PASSES

The first clashes between troops of Roumania and the Central Powers occurred last night in southeastern and eastern frontier mountain passes of Hungary, says an official statement given out here to-day. Advanced guards of the two forces came into contact at Rothenturm Pass, fifteen miles south of Hermannstadt, Transylvania, and in the passes south of Kronstadt (Brasso); the statement adds.

BIG FOE CENTRES MENACED.

Kronstadt and Hermannstadt, toward which the Austrian official communication indicates the Roumanians are making their first efforts at an advance, are two of the most important cities in Transylvania. They are near the southern border of Hungary, the former about six miles from the Roumanian frontier and the latter about fifteen miles from the frontier. Kronstadt is seventy miles east-southeast of Hermannstadt.

The city of Kronstadt is the most important commercial and manufacturing centre of Transylvania. It has a population of about 41,000. Hermannstadt is a former capital of Transylvania and lies near the River Sibiu. It has a population of 33,000. Roumanians make up a large part of the population of both cities.

The entry of Roumania into the conflict on the side of the Allies so that she may "satisfy her national aspirations" will materially shorten the war. There is no pretence in Bucharest or anywhere else that Roumania is fighting for freedom, or the rights of the little peoples, or the curbing of militarism. She is in the war for the spoils. Had there been the remotest doubt as to the power of the Allies to bring the struggle to a successful end she would have maintained her attitude of not too benevolent neutrality. For this the statesmen of Roumania can hardly be blamed. They saw mighty Russia a year ago reel under the hammer-strokes of the Teutons and withdraw her armies far within her own borders. The half million men Roumania can place in the field for active service would then have counted little. Left to defend herself with entirely inadequate stores of ammunition and an insufficient equipment of heavy guns, Roumania, had she entered the war, would have been overrun as Serbia and Montenegro were while Russia was engaged in reorganizing her armies and providing war material.

Bratiano, the Roumanian Premier, is a cold, calculating politician, whose one great passion is a greater Roumania that shall include not only the three million or more people in Bessarabia, which was ceded to Russia in 1878. He has probably secured from Russia a promise that the fertile wheat lands of that province three million or more people in Bessarabia, which was ceded to Russia in 1878. He has probably secured from Russia a promise that the fertile wheat lands of that province shall be restored if the Roumanian army is employed in breaking the link between Berlin and Constantinople, and so bringing about the collapse of Turkey. The Orient Railway, which runs across Serbia and Bulgaria, is the spinal cord of the Turkish Empire. By severing it Turkey and Bulgaria can be paralyzed. Without the constant stream of military supplies passing over that railroad the resistance of Turkey to the assaults of the Grand Duke Nicholas must collapse within a few weeks, for there has been no opportunity to pile up stores in Turkish territory for a long campaign. It may be expected, therefore, that while the Roumanians will at once set about the invasion of Transylvania they will also strike from their extreme westerly boundary near the "Iron Gates of the Danube" across Bulgaria and Serbia towards the Orient Railway. In this part of the Roumanian campaign the Slavs are almost certain to take part. Already a Russian army has been assembled in Bessarabia which it is believed is destined for the Balkans. If the Roumanians and Russians from the north can join hands before November with the Franco-British army advancing up the Vardar Valley the Turk and the Pulgar will be eliminated from the fighting forces of the Central Powers, and a great step will have been taken by the Allies towards a victorious peace.

Roumania is not fighting for the Allies or for peace. She joins the Entente because she is fully convinced that the Allies are going to win, and that if she does not take Transylvania now she will probably never have another opportunity to do so. Roumania enters the war because she can no longer ignore the facts with which she is confronted. Her King is a Hohenzollern, yet he could not, if he would, alter the settled resolve of the Roumanian people to realize their national aspirations. Constantine of Greece, who is merely a Hohenzollern by marriage, will be equally unable to prevent the Greeks from seeking territorial expansion by siding with the winners before it is too late. There will be tremendous changes in the Balkans within the next three months.

Scotsmen Are French Citizens.
Every Scotsman in France is a French citizen, with all the rights and privileges of such, if he chooses to claim them! In other words, every Scotsman born in Scotland is also a Frenchman, and is thus possessed of two nationalities. Surely a unique position.
Rheims has been very prominent during the present war, and it was there, after his coronation in 1429, that Charles VII. promulgated a decree that, in return for the assistance rendered by the Scottish soldiers to Joan of Arc, who defeated the English and made his coronation possible, Scotsmen were for all time to be considered free citizens of France.

Now the whirligig of time has once more brought the Scots to the neighborhood of Rheims to assist their fellow French citizens, not against the English, but, in conjunction with them, against the would-be destroyers of civilization.

Having solved the question of rate of fire you would have that the French would have tent. Not they! Rockwell Has Big Territory on Dort

Gets Sixty-five Iowa Counties in Which to Distribute the Car.

A. R. Rockwell, formerly with the Herring Motor company, has just closed negotiations with the Dort Motor Car company, Flint, Mich., to act as a distributor for sixty-five counties will be contracted through Mr. Rockwell, whose office is in the Masonic Temple building, Tenth and Locust streets.

Mr. Rockwell is very enthusiastic in regard to the prospect for distribution of Dort cars in this state and when seen at his office he stated that the outlook for the sale of Dort cars in Iowa is very bright.

Mr. Rockwell says:
"In selecting a car my aim has been to get the best moderate priced car on the market. The Dort sells for $695.
I spent considerable time in looking into the merits of the various makes of cars selling for less than $1,000 and finally came to the conclusion that point for point the Dort offered more for the money than any other car now made.

"With the Dort we are able to offer for $695 a car of proven merit in either touring or clover-leaf type roadster, having six great big important features, that are found only on the highest priced car on the market, and the entire combination on the Dort alone. These are Westinghouse starting and lighting, Willard storage battery, fifty-one inch cantilever springs, complete accessory equipment, including demountable rims, big, roomy, luxuriously upholstered body and a motor that is economical and powerful in the extreme, a motor with a crank-shaft and bearings and oversize parts throughout that one would only expect to find on a car selling for considerably more money. Behind the Dort, too, is a company of unquestioned financial standing, for the Dort Motor Car company is in fact an outgrowth of the old Durant-Dort Carriage company, builders of the well known Blue Ribbon buggy.

"In selling the Dort car the officials of the Dort Motor Car company have adopted a policy that is unique in its fairness to both dealer and owner. This policy has been to develop one section of territory at a time and only to add new territory, as compatible with increased factory production.
To the dealer this has meant that he can depend on his factory for cars; to the buyer that when he purchases a Dort car that he can bank on what his dealer tells him about delivery.

"We are already making arrangements with dealers in our territory to handle the Dort in their separate localities. I expect a very large business in this new undertaking.—Register and Leader, Des Moines, Iowa.

Dry Docking a Warship.

One of the operations a naval officer dislikes more than anything else is docking a big warship to undergo repairs. It is one of the most difficult tasks imaginable, and the slightest carelessness may mean damage done to the extent of some thousands of pounds. Before being floated into the dock the vessel is usually lightened of everything that can be easily taken from her, and then she is towed in by tugs. The greatest care has to be taken to get the huge mass to float in exactly its proper position so that, when the water is pumped out of the dock it will come to rest upon the keel blocks in such a way that its great weight is evenly distributed.

These big repairing docks, or grav-ing docks, as they are usually called, are built in a series of steps so that they are much narrower at the bottom than at the top. These steps give support to the balks of timber which keep the vessel upright. A float, called a "marker," is used to show that the battleship is in its right position before the water is drained away. Any miscalculation and the vessel might heel over, and there is no stopping a 25,000-ton ship when it begins doing that.

Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde

Ottawa August 25th.—Students of history have been thinking that the vexed question of dual representation was settled long ago. The Hon. Frank Cochrane is about the neatest and completest thing in the way of dual representation that has happened since the issue was supposed to be put out of politics. He is a dual representative with a difference. In the old days a dual representative sat for two constituencies, one in the Legislature and the other in Parliament at Ottawa—he was what you might call a two seat hog. But the law changed all that so the dual representative had to change his methods. Instead of sitting for two constituencies in two different Parliaments, he sat for one constituency in both.

That is how the Hon. Frank Cochrane operates to-day. His constituency is the International Nickel Company and he sits for it at Ottawa—and incidentally stands for all it does—as Minister of Railways, and in Queen's Park as Premier Hearst, with the Hon. Howard Ferguson as Johnny-on-the-spot, when Premier Hearst fades away to Europe. Of course, being only one man, and having a wooden leg at that, Mr. Cochrane can't cover all the ground at once, so while he attends to the job personally at Ottawa, he acts through Premier Hearst in Toronto. Premier Hearst is his Astral Body, so to speak, also his Absent Treatment for the nickel question.

The Hon. Frank's is the strangest case of dual representation that has ever been recorded since Robert Louis Stevenson conceived his famous character of Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde. What's more Mr. Hyde has the long end of the combination. In fact Mr. Hyde has been so strong lately, that poor, tortured Premier Hearst is in hiding, so to speak, in Europe at this very moment. He does not want to gaze on his work in South West Toronto. Mr. Cochrane himself is in no better plight. His health has suffered from these tremendous struggles in which Mr. Hyde always gets the best of it.

It is a long time since either Mr. Cochrane or Premier Hearst was fortunate enough to appear in the role of the benevolent Dr. Jekyll. The bevilish Mr. Hyde, meaning the International Nickel Company, has so often put his amiable silent partner to the bad that he has become quite discouraged and never shows up now in the public performance of either statesman. It may happen that Mr. Cochrane is Dr. Jekylling at Ottawa—a rare occurrence—but what boots that when Premier Hearst, his other self, is Mr. Hyding in Queen's Park? Also it may happen that Premier Hearst is Dr. Jekylling in Queen's Park but just at that moment Mr. Cochrane is playing the other end of his double personality at Ottawa. They never seem to be lucky enough to do the Dr. Jekyll act at the same time. They can't get together long enough. This explains why Mr. Hyde is in a fair way to shatter both statesmen.

This dual representation of Mr. Cochrane's, this contending and conflicting double personality of his, works out in interesting ways so that in anything very raw done in Queen's Park one may frequently see the hand of Mr. Cochrane, the mouth of Premier Hearst, and the voice of Mr. Hyde, said Mr. Hyde being generally the International Nickel Company.

This International Nickel Company certainly has a strong hold on the Hon. Frank Cochrane and his faithful henchman, Premier Hearst. It is not only entrenched in his affections, but in his pocket. The Canadian Copper Company, which was the original vendor of the Sudbury mines to the International trust of Yankees and Germans, has names which, somehow or other, overlap into the shareholders' list of the Cochrane Hardware Company, of which the Minister of Railways is the President.

Yes, the International Nickel Company is the Mr. Hyde of the ghastly political tragedy which is now being played out at Ottawa and Toronto with Mr. Cochrane and Premier Hearst as the star performers. Mr. Hyde is a good name for it because it hides its books and its profits in the United States, hides its dealings with Germany and other enemies of the British Empire, hides what it makes on the side from the other metals contained in the nickel matter, and then hides from the consequences under the coattails of the Hon. Frank Cochrane, Premier Hearst, Hon. Howard Ferguson and other foxy explainers.

But luckily for the Canadian people, even Conservative papers like the Toronto World, began to get sick of the depredations of the bad Mr. Hyde. Moreover a live Liberal candidate stepped into the field in South West Toronto and proceeded to drag Mr. Hyde into the light of day. In a week's campaigning these facts emerged conspicuously. The International Nickel Company pay $40,000 a year in taxes on an annual output of $37,000,000. For years a great part of this nickel has been going to Germany, where it is worked up into guns, bullets, armor plate and other munitions of war. The Deutschland sailed with a cargo of it the other day—the "gentleman's agreement" with the Ottawa and Toronto Governments not to sell to the enemies of the empire being practically inoperative. It isn't the money that a heartless monopoly is making out of Ontario's natural resources—though that is no small grievance—but it's the tario's natural resources—though that is no small grievance—but it's the appalling fact that most of the nickel sold to Germany and her allies comes back to us in the bodies of our soldiers on land and sea, wounded or slain by missiles forged from our nickel. Thus does Mr. Hyde do his bit in the great war.

Comes now Hon. Howard Ferguson with promises of increased taxation, and a nickel refinery in Ontario, but this is a belated repentance and as much to be suspected as the Hon. Mr. Lucas' announced intentions towards the Hydro-Radial enterprise. Nothing less than repeal of the McGarry Act will untie Sir Adam Beck's hands and place the great public ownership profit where it was before the Cochrane-Hearst crowd took a crack at it. Here again we have Mr. Hyde entering into the bosom of the Government. First he entered into Dr. Reid, who acted as Mr. Cochrane's understudy during his absence, causing him to treat Sir Adam with great contumely when he appeared before the Railway Committee of the House of Commons. Dr. Reid told his supporters to go to it, and they did. Mr. Hyde enjoyed himself prodigiously at Sir Adam's expense. What he didn't do to the champion of the people's cause wasn't worth doing.

After that Mr. Hyde entered into Tom McGarry and rended him violently on behalf of Mr. Cochrane and his hydro-radial antipathies. The result was the McGarry Act, which left hydro-radials all tied up like a sore thumb.

Bulgar's Fall Hastened By Entry of Roumania

Bucharest, Aug. 28th—Only a great German victory could have checked Roumanian intervention. It failed to materialize, and they have stepped into the war; first, to realize their national aspirations; secondly, inspired by the humanitarian spirit to shorten the war, which will now end six months sooner than was expected a week ago.

The most valuable reward of Roumania's intervention will be Transylvania, populated by four million Roumanians. The Banat of Temesvar, also mainly Roumanian, and Bukovina, too, will be in the balance. Hungary will lose a quarter of her territory and population, including the big towns of Temesvar, Kolosvar and Brasso, as well as her richest mining districts.

Regarding the future course of the war, Roumania's intervention hastens Bulgaria's downfall and hurries the downfall of Constantinople, enabling Russia to ship much-needed cereals to Britain, France and Italy.

Present day Government won't listen to anybody, ronto "World" is therefore the Opposition being aware that under our plutocracy Oppositions (unlike the Opposition in the present) do little beyond urging ment toward a desired ending as a brake on government extravagance.

The World's efforts to W. Rowell, the leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, the nickel trust were created by an editorial in "Star" of August 24th. of Mr. Rowell is as clear and the World's comment of the 25th on the action of the Liberal leader in the session are mere drivel.

The World cannot condone a campaign against the nickel without introducing politics. Its viewpoint is so warped that it must include the Dominion vintical Opposition leader's dictment of the Government. And it does not resist coming up to windward as the wind from its sails blows out where Mr. Rowell's nickel question.

In its endeavor to come wind again the World's "agreements between politics for years back." The journal generalizes when approach of the honored Liberal in Ontario. It says, "against leaders of the who are just as friendly national (Nickel) Com Government in office."

If the World has not rousing the Government session it will see where scores; and no doubt Mr. Guelph, has a good supply of hits, too. Rowell Co. have had the sleeper tario Cabinet rubbing it some time now. They w perhaps, when it is too.

To all intents and purposes the World is agitating for well has already demanded of the House—government nickel. Is the journal's principal news item a standby should have to overboard?

The "Star" pointed out ascertaining from the that the Canada Copper subsidiary company of tional Nickel Co.) had paid 000 in taxes last year in 000 imposed by the Min Mr. Carter, (Liberal Member Wellington) demanded the once between the Government Nickel companies. It is Mr. Hearst had made a ment with the company for a flat rate of $40,000 five years. Mr. Rowell fact that there was no the Act authorizing the to make such an agreement was admitted by Premier Liberal members berated ment for overstepping the and asked if they would steps to secure the profit of the tremendous profit this company. NICKEL AGITATION

Today Governments apparently listen to anybody, and the "To-World" is therefore trying out opposition being apparently un-aided under our present constitutional Oppositions (unfortunately it is in the present instance) can be beyond urging the Government toward a desired end or by acting a brake on governmental exercise.

World's efforts to link Mr. N. Rowell, the leader of the Opposition in the Ontario Legislature, with the trust were completely frustrated by an editorial in the Toronto Globe of August 24th. The attitude of Mr. Rowell is as clear as daylight. World's comments in its issue of August 25th on the action taken by the Ontario leader in the House last week are mere drivel.

World cannot conduct its campaign against the nickel interests by introducing politics into it. Its point is so warped that it excludes the Dominion and Pro-Ontario leaders in its in-terpretation of the Governments in power. It does not relish the "Star" up to windward and snatching it from its sails in pointing out that Mr. Rowell stands on the question.

World endeavors to come up in the gain the World harps about the balance between political parties is back. The journal has to wait when approaching the re-nowned Liberal chieftain in Ontario. It says, "you run up the leaders of the opposition" just as friendly to the Inter-nickel Company as are the agents in office."

World has not succeeded in the Government by the next time it will see where Mr. Rowell and no doubt Mr. Carter, of the Ontario Government, has a good supply of ammunition and he has a reputation for hits, too. Rowell, Carter & Co. had the sleepers in the Ontario cabinet rubbing their eyes for the first time. They will wake up, when it is too late.

World's intentions and purposes are so obvious that Mr. Rowell, already demanded on the floor of the Ontario Legislature, control of the Ontario Government should have to be thrown out.

World's "Star" pointed out how, after the Ontario Government's Canada Copper Company (a subsidiary of the International Nickel Co.) had paid only $40,000 taxes last year instead of $400,000, as demanded by the Mining Tax Act, Mr. Rowell exposed the fact that there was no provision in the Ontario Government's such an agreement, and this was admitted by Premier Hearst. Members berated the Government for overstepping their authority and if they would not take the province's share in the enormous profits made by the company. The answer from Mr. Hearst (Minister of Mines) was that it was "difficult." And yet he

Bread Making Contests

At Rural School Fairs

PRIZES—Free Courses at Macdonald Institute, Guelph Free Poultry Raising Courses at Ontario Agricultural College
Free Cook Books and Magazines

Over 1,500 prizes in all will be offered in bread-making contests which will be held this fall at over 250 rural school fairs taking place in Ontario. It will be a great event at the fairs and will stimulate interest in bread-making among young girls between the ages of 12 and 17 years.

Here is a wonderful opportunity for your daughter to win for herself a Free Course in Domestic Science at the famous Macdonald Institute, Guelph. All she has to do is to bake one double loaf of bread and enter it in the contest at the fair according to the conditions explained below and more fully told in the folder we will send you on request. The loaf must be baked with the hard wheat flour guaranteed for bread.

This is a splendid flour which makes the biggest, bulging loaves—whitest, lightest and most wholesome bread you ever baked. Is this not a splendid opportunity to interest your daughters in breadmaking?

Here are the Splendid Prizes offered for the best loaf of bread baked with Cream of the West Flour. The following are offered at each local fair:

1st Prize—1 paid-up subscription to "My Magazine" for 1 year. This magazine is full from cover to cover every month with articles suitable for young people of all ages. It is published in English. Value $2.50 per year.

2nd Prize—6 months paid-up subscription to "My Magazine." Value $1.25.

Extra Prizes—When entries exceed ten a 3rd prize will be awarded of 6 mos. paid-up subscription to "My Magazine." When the number of entries exceeds twenty the judges at the fair will award 4th, 5th, and 6th prizes of one year's paid-up subscriptions to "The Little Paper." This is a wonderful little publication issued every month in England. Its eight pages are packed with highly engaging information and stories relating to history, nature-study, animals, bird-life, etc.

Provincial Prizes—The winners of first prize at each local fair compete for following Provincial prizes. The first and second prizes, or third and fourth prizes, will not be awarded in any one county:

1st Prize—Short Course (3 months) in Domestic Science at Macdonald Institute, Guelph. The Macdonald Institute does not accept students under the age of 17 years; if the winner be less than 17 we present her with a certificate entitling her to take the course when she reaches the right age. Value of course $75.00, which pays for fees, room, board and washing. The winner lives at Macdonald Hall while taking course.

2nd Prize—Short Course (3 months) in Domestic Science at Macdonald Institute, Guelph.

3rd Prize—Short Course (4 weeks) in Poultry Raising at Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph. Girls taking this course do not live at the College, but good boarding houses will be secured for them in Guelph. Value of course $35.00, which pays board of student in Guelph. (No fees are charged for course.)

4th Prize—Short Course (4 weeks) in Poultry Raising at the Ontario Agricultural College.

5th to 29th Prizes—The Famous Boston Cooking-school Cook Book by Fannie Merritt Farmer, latest edition (1914). There are 2117 thoroughly tested recipes and 130 photographic reproductions of dishes, etc., besides much special information.

Important—The winners of 1st prizes at the fairs automatically become competitors for the Provincial Prizes. The second half of the double loaf is sent to Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, by the district representative in special container provided. The judging is done by Miss M. A. Purdy of the Department of Breadmaking and Flour Testing at the College.

Conditions of the Contest

Every girl may compete at the rural school fair in her district, whether or not she attends school, providing that her 12th birthday occurs before November 1st, 1910, or her 17th birthday does not occur before Nov. 1, 1910. One loaf of bread must be submitted baked in pan about 7 x 5 inches and 3 inches deep, and divided into two loaves so that they may be separated at the fair. The loaf must be baked with Cream of the West Flour. One half will be judged at the fair. The other half first prize loaf will be sent to Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, to compete in the Provincial Contest. The local contest at the fair will be conducted under the same rules as all the other regular contests at your fair.

The standard by which bread will be judged will be as follows:

1. Appearance of Loaf	15 marks
(a) Color	5 marks
(b) Texture of crust	5 marks
(c) Shape of loaf	5 marks
2. Texture of Crumb	40 marks
(a) Evenness	15 marks
(b) Silkeness	20 marks
(c) Color	5 marks
3. Flavor of Bread	45 marks
(a) Taste	25 marks
(b) Odor	20 marks

Each loaf must be accompanied by the part of the flour bag containing the face of the Old Miller (important) and an entry form must be signed by the girl and parents or guardian stating date of birth, P.O. address, and giving name of dealer from whom Cream of the West Flour was purchased. The form will state that the girl actually baked the loaf entered in the competition. The forms will be provided at the time of the fair. The decision of the judges is final. Not more than one entry may be made by each girl and not more than one prize will be awarded to the same family.

The Results of the contests at the fair will be made known in the usual way as in the case of all the other regular contests. The Provincial results will be announced as soon as possible after the conclusion of the Rural School Fairs in the Province.

Do Not Miss this Great Opportunity: Every girl between 12 and 17 years should compete. What a splendid way to stir up increased interest in breadmaking! Get a supply of Cream of the West Flour at your dealers and practise using it as often as possible to increase the chances of winning. If your dealer cannot sell it to you, write to the Campbell Flour Mills Co., Ltd., Toronto, and they will promptly tell you the nearest place to get it.

No Competitions in Counties Named Below: The competition is open to all parts of the province where Rural School Fairs are held, except the districts of Rainy River, Kenora, Manitoulin and Thunder-Bay. These districts are the only parts of the province where school fairs are held by the Department of Agriculture in which this competition will not be a feature. There are no district representatives of the Department of Agriculture in the Counties of Huron, Perth, Wellington, Haliburton, Prescott, Russell or Lincoln, and no rural school fairs are held in these Counties by the Department of Agriculture. We regret, therefore, that the competition cannot include these Counties.

A TALE of RED ROSES

By GEORGE RANDOLPH CHESTER

PROLOGUE.

"A Tale of Red Roses," by George Randolph Chester, is one of that author's best stories. It introduces a typical red blooded boss politician of the type found in many American cities and a beautiful girl, with whom the boss is in love. Incidents of political intrigue and high finance are fascinatingly told.

The author relates, as only he can, stirring incidents in ward, city and state politics. In his strenuous, spectacular wooing the politician makes the girl the favorite at a governor's ball. He has diplomats, artists and notables of every description pay her homage. He lavishes presents on her. He anticipates her every wish. His love is overpowering, all consuming.

"A Tale of Red Roses" holds the interest of the reader from start to finish. Once begun it must be finished.

CHAPTER I.

The Dawning of a Tender Passion.

A COAL wagon, naturally choosing the rush hour for the performance, broke down in front of an extra crowded car, and traffic was promptly knotted for three blocks. A shining big automobile, following up the hill, came so close behind that the glare of the street car shone with unpleasant brightness on the occupants—a smiling red cheeked girl at the wheel; by her side a gray vandyked man with sinister lines running sharply downward from his down pointed nose; in the tonneau a plainly dressed and modestly pretty black haired girl with large and rather timid eyes and a slender golden haired girl whose chief mission in life, from her

"It's Sledge," said the man with the frayed cigar. "He gets his little old rakeoff, too, from jamming sixty people into a forty passenger car. While he's running the town this rotten old line won't have any competition."

"Mr. Sledge is a good customer of mine," observed the fat butcher.

"There's one thing about Ben Sledge—he always keeps some big city improvement going on," announced the Irishman who had extinguished little Henry Peters.

Little Henry pulled his derby audibly off his head and rubbed the red circle it had left.

"Mr. Sledge is the workingman's friend," he declared.

"Aw, shut up!" ordered the gaunt Celtic laborer and kicked his ankle by way of accidental emphasis.

It was strange that, while everybody on the car kept the name of Frank Marley sacred to their hatred, the name of Sledge, who was notorious throughout the United States for his utterly conscienceless methods of public theft, was received with equanimity.

Meanwhile Sledge, turning to see who his neighbors might be, met the eye of Frank Marley and nodded perfunctorily and then bent his entire attention on Molly, gazing at her in stolid concentration, with no more change of expression on his heavy features than if he had been reading a timetable. Bert Glider noticed his rudeness and tried in a mood of intense aggravation to catch Sledge's eye and reprove him with a savage frown, but he might as well have tried to catch the eye of an oyster. Sledge, perfectly contented with the pleasing picture which sat before him, continued to stare calmly until Molly, discerning from Bert's countenance that something was wrong, turned to meet the small gray eyes of Sledge fixed thoughtfully upon her. She wheeled abruptly to her father.

"Isn't that the scandalous Sledge?" she asked, annoyed and still amused.

Her father nodded his head and smiled, his nose becoming still more pointed in the process.

"Well, introduce him. I can make him stop staring, then," she ordered. "He can't drive on."

"I say, Sledge," called Marley, leaning forward. "This is my daughter, Molly."

Sledge tugged at his hat and smiled his acknowledgment of the introduc-

"There isn't much to say," Bozzam stated. "We think your city needs new and better street car facilities, and we are here to give them to you if you will let us. The company I propose to form will be bona fide and will be incorporated for a million dollars in regular money. Mr. Moodson will take a quarter of a million of the stock himself. It might be some satisfaction to you to secure a report on Mr. Moodson from Dunn or Bradstreet."

Mr. Bendix grinned.

"It sounds like a high grade proposition," he acknowledged. "I'll speak to some friends of mine about it this noon."

When Tom Bendix walked into the Occident saloon he paused a moment at the bar, but even though his wishes were as potent here as those of omnipotence, since he represented the omnipotent Sledge, he had to wait, for both the choice bartenders were in delighted attendance on a careless fat man.

"Who's the entertainment committee?" asked Bendix, a trifle sharply.

"A total stranger by the name of Timbers," rejoined Phil, vigorously

"I want to get acquainted with her," ordered Sledge.

mopping up an almost imaginary splash. "He's so full of new ones that every time he opens his mouth he spills a good laugh."

"What's his business?" demanded Bendix, who was an earnest collector of definite information.

"Carrying hot ones, as far as I can get it," answered Phil, laughing reminiscently. "Say, this guy tells 'em so fast you can't remember 'em. Blondy just asked him to stop so he could write 'em down. He slipped in a funny knock or two about the street car service here."

Sledge turned slow question on Marley.

"You going to be home tomorrow?" inquired.

"Well, yes, I rather think I'll be home tomorrow."

"I'm coming out to see you."

"I'll be glad to have you."

Marley. "I suppose I may be out tomorrow?"

Sledge nodded assent, looking out meanwhile at the hand high board gate at the end of way.

ressed and modestly pretty black-haired girl with large and rather timid eyes and a slender golden haired girl whose chief mission in life, from her expression, would have been taken to be mischievous fun.

"Hello, Bert!" called the girl at the wheel. "Can you uncrouch yourself?"

The rather large young man in the neatly fitting blue suit who had been jammed against the rail of the rear platform had already begun to worm his way out of the ill humored throng on the street car.

"I'll try it," he laughed, "although I don't expect to have a button left."

The crowd, its clothing still clammy from the recent rain, made way for him reluctantly, even though it needed the space he occupied, for the pompous looking, vandyked man in the car was Frank Marley, by all odds the most unpopular man in the city. He was the president of the street car company.

The young man in the neat blue suit, whose cheeks were flawlessly pink and whose luxuriant black mustache was curled in two amazingly perfect ringlets, picked his way daintily through the slush.

"Bert, this is the treat I promised you," said the girl at the wheel.

"Miss Fern Burbank," he guessed, clapping the blond visitor's hand, and at the same time he gave his left hand condescendingly to little Jessie Peters. "Welcome to our muddy city."

"Thank you," smiled the golden haired young lady. "Of course this is handsome Bert Glider."

"Molly's been telling on me," he lightly answered as he took the folding seat just behind Mr. Marley, sitting sideways so that he could address the two girls in the tonneau and still enjoy the clean cut profile of Ethelyn Marley, known to her intimates as Molly, for no better reason than that it was a handier name.

The lights in the car ahead suddenly went out, and a groan arose from the miserable passengers on that suffocating vehicle. A roughly breathed man, who had been resting his elbow in the wishbone of gray whiskered little Henry Peters, reached the point of heroic defiance.

He cursed the street car company and demanded, "Why don't they put on more cars?"

Little Henry Peters, who admitted he was a stockholder, took the company's part.

The conductor crowded back through the solidly packed aisle and the suffering platform to jerk hopefully at the trolley rope, and little Henry Peters squeezed between his opponent and the fat butcher until bones could stand no more, popped from between their peripheries like the inside of a grape, landing in the solar plexus of a tired Hibernian, who had endured more than enough.

"Get out of my stomach, stockholder," he gruffly ordered and pushed little Henry's derby tightly down over his ears just as another machine drew out of the fretting rearward line and, stopped by the ragged gutter, rested abreast of Marley's machine. The conductor having restored the lights, the attention of the uncomfortable passengers was now directed to the newcomer, a heavy jowled man of middle age, who sat as stolidly in his runabout by the side of his driver as if he had been at home dining.

ing forward. This is my daughter, Molly."

Sledge tugged at his hat and smiled his acknowledgment of the introduction.

"Glad to meet you," he told Molly. "I didn't know you had such a fine looking girl, Marley. She's a corker," and once more he viewed Miss Molly with quiet approbation, in which there was a dawning glimmer of quite un-Sledge-like enthusiasm.

"I think so myself," laughed Marley. "First thing I know she'll be getting married."

"Sure!" agreed Sledge, contemplating her earnestly in this new light. "I'd marry her myself."

The street car ahead gave a forward lurch, and the flamingly indignant Molly darted into the opening.

"The ugly brute!" she gasped.

There arrived on the morning train, escorted to the platform by a distinctly worshipful porter, a tall, big boned gentleman in a light gray suit of fine texture, a plump, careless man to whom one would instinctively turn for a tediously funny story, and a hard jawed man of a most forbidding expression, who looked about as communicative as a cabbage. This gentleman loafed about the hotel with his mouth shut, while the other two "scouted." Promptly at 11 o'clock they returned from their various directions and gathered in the room of the smiling tall one in the gray suit.

"Well, Timbers, is it as cheerful as we thought?" asked the host, settling himself in the most comfortable chair.

"Looks gay and merry to me, Bozzam," replied Mr. Timbers, folding his hands on his fat knee and frowning intently at a little slip of paper he held between his thumb and forefinger. "Sledge is, of course, the whole works."

"What's the approach to Sledge?"

"Tom Bendix," returned Timbers promptly, consulting his slip of paper. "He sifts everything before it gets to the big boy, and you don't need any introductions. The best plan is to go right to his office and give him the straight story."

"How about Marley?"

"A stuff," returned Timbers contemptuously. "Because he's the president of the street car company he thinks he invented electricity, and his noodle is swelled so that it cracks his scalp."

"You'd better lead me to this Bendix person," suggested Bozzam, rising. "Come on, Moodson."

Very automatically the silent man arose and accompanied Bozzam from the room with the air of being just as willing to do that as anything else. Just as automatically he followed into the office of Tom Bendix five minutes later and stood silently by, so oppressive in his inertia that he removed to himself all speculation about any one who was in his company.

"I want to talk electrical transportation with you," began Mr. Bozzam cheerily as he laid the cards of Mr. Moodson and himself on the desk. "I am Charles W. Bozzam of New York, and this is Mr. Alvin Moodson of Philadelphia."

Bendix shook hands noncommittally with the two gentlemen and invited them to have seats.

"I don't know that I care to talk electrical transportation, but I'm willing to listen," he smiled.

write 'em down. He slipped in a funny knock or two about the street car service here."

Bendix walked thoughtfully into the little back room, the bareness of which, kept to its former crudeness by the wish of the boss, was in strange contrast to the elaborately mirrored and mahogany carved Occident. Here, at an extremely plain round table, he found the huge and impassive Sledge gazing moodily out the dusty window, while Frank Marley, with a half emptied whisky glass in his hand, sat regarding him with a puzzled expression. Marley turned with relief when he saw Bendix.

"I've just been suggesting that we build the proposed Ridgewood avenue extension out of the company funds, rather than make a new issue of stock," he explained. "By adding slightly to our bonded indebtedness we can do this and keep the additional net earnings among the present stockholders," and he stroked his neatly cropped gray vandyke, with the almost smirking complacency of a man who is sure he is earning a reputation for superior judgment.

Bendix looked at him a moment in unexpressed wonder.

"I don't suppose you remember that we first decided on the Ridgewood avenue extension for the express purpose of reorganization, new issue of stock and readjustment of shares," he chillingly reminded Marley.

"I know," persisted Marley. "But, after mature deliberation, it seems that to make the extension from the company's earnings is the more legitimate business method. I am not in favor of the modern practice of watering stock. The earnings, after all, are not increased by stock juggling."

Sledge turned ponderously from his inspection of the dingy little areaway as Bendix left the room.

"Your girl's a peach," he delicately hinted.

"Molly?" smiled Marley's nose. "She is a beauty, isn't she? The boys are crazy about her. It looks like a college convention out at my house all the time."

"I want to get acquainted with her," ordered Sledge, much as if he had been sending the happy word to some rising new politician.

A shade of annoyance passed over Marley's brow.

"That is a matter which is entirely up to Molly," he stated, with a trace of stiffness.

"All right. Put it up to Molly," said Sledge and looked out of the window again.

Marley hesitated and half arose. He knew that his call was over, and yet he had something else on his mind.

"By the way, Sledge," he observed, trying to speak as if the matter had just occurred to him, "that note of mine at the First National—it falls due next week. I am afraid I shall have to have an extension."

Sledge nodded imperceptibly.

"Tell Davis I said it was all right," he directed.

Bendix returned, and with him was Bert Glider, redolent of the odor of barber shop and with his curly black mustache waxed and brilliantined until it was filled with almost painful reflections. He greeted Mr. Marley with much more effusiveness than that gentleman did him.

"Well, Glider, tell us about Bendix as Marley went on. "I want you to tell me Glider, in happy unconscious he was a deadly offense to I called him 'pretty'; "is the avenue extension a sure go "Why do you want to quired Bendix.

then, to the puzzled Fern, "You re-

Mr. Glider, who as a boy had been an expert in pulling the wings from flies, went straight on with the slaughter, seizing immediately the glorious opportunity which presented itself when Mr. Marley, brave in smoking jacket and pumps, sauntered into the parlor.

"Great news, Marley!" hailed Bert, beaming with delight upon the joyous laughter of Fern. "Molly has captured a new honor for the family. Whose do you suppose is the latest scalp at her belt?"

"It might be almost anybody," returned Marley, who felt that his motherless daughter's popularity reflected somehow on himself. "Who is the particular victim you have in mind?" and he laughed in advance.

"Sledge!" exploded Bert. "By the way, Marley, he gave you a hint of it too. Didn't he ask you today while I was there for an invitation to Molly's party tomorrow night or something like that?"

"Well, not exactly, but he did throw out some pretty strong hints," ac-knowledgeed Marley with a grin, entering into the joyous spirit of the occasion. "He asked permission to call on Molly. I told him that was up to her."

"How unusually considerate!" observed Molly, biting her lips to suppress the rising fury which had driven the blushes from her cheeks and left them almost waxen.

The Marley butler, a thin faced and thin legged young man with a painfully intellectual countenance, stalked past the hallway portieres in answer to a below stairs ring and returned from the front door with:

"Mr. Sledge, sir, to see Mr. Marley."

"Show him into the library," hastily directed Marley, suddenly contrite and feeling a sinking horror, as did all the others in the room, of having this man face to face with Molly, especially after the crimes against her, of which they had themselves been guilty.

The instructions were too late, however.

"Good evening," rumbled the deep voice of Sledge, who just then appeared directly in the center of the opening

CURIOUS MARRIAGE CUSTOM.

How the Dusky Maidens of Western Africa Win Husbands.

The natives of western Africa, and especially those on the coast, retain many quaint customs. When a girl has reached her eleventh or twelfth year she is considered quite old enough to enter into the bonds of matrimony.
She is taken to the bank of the nearest river and an offering to the particular deities that she and her tribe worship is made with all due solemnity beside the stream. The dusky maid is then publicly washed in the river; a bracelet of black and white beads and gold is placed round her wrist, or, if her family are not rich enough to provide beads of gold, her wrist is simply marked with white lines.

She is then dressed in the best of the family wardrobe and is escorted in a procession through the town to show to all beholders of her beauty that she has reached the marrying age. Her hair is fantastically plaited and she is perfumed with scents.

All this done, if she is lucky a number of eligible young bachelors come forward and make offers for her hand

 Italian barber could plaster it, and various angry specks on his cheeks told how microscopically he had been shaved. The crowning triumphs of his toilet, however, he carried. In his right hand he bore, held by a wide velvet ribbon, in the same huge fingers which clutched the gold headed cane presented by the Capital City Sledge club, a thirty dollar box of candy, two feet across, wrapped with six beribboned layers of fancy paper and provided with an absolute maze of drawers and partitions. In his left hand he carried a speckless silk hat of the latest French shape, and that arm encircled a conical parcel, so big that it would have staggered a small man, while from the upper end of the cone protruded a square yard of screaming red roses.

"Good evening, Miss Molly," he added, becoming more specific. "I brought these for you myself," and he beamed his cordial good will upon the entire assemblage.

It was in this breathless crisis that Molly Marley, aggravated beyond endurance, took her merciless revenge.

"How perfectly delightful!" she cried, and she swept toward him with more eager cordiality than she had ever bestowed upon Bert Glider himself.
 "We've just been talking about you," and then, to the intense consternation of her father and her foremost suitor, she added: "I want you at my party tomorrow night. Won't you come, please?"

The next day Smash, Molly's pet, like the way of many good dogs, fell into the hands of the official dog catcher and was taken off to the pound.
 Molly was in a pitiable state. She appealed to her father. He testily said that he was busy. In her desperation and hardly knowing why she did it, she telephoned to Sledge. One of Sledge's men said that he was very busy. But when he heard it was Molly he jumped into an automobile, accompanied Molly to the pound and got Smash.
 On the way home Sledge talked of his dog Bob, and Molly shivered when he said he'd like to match Bob against Smash. As if noticing her displeasure, he changed the subject to Molly's party, and for the hundredth time Molly was sorry she invited him.

A yelp on the front porch announced the arrival of Ben Sledge, and he appeared in the brilliantly lighted hall, holding a tightly stretched chain, to the other end of which was attached a one eyed, stub eared, battle scarred bull terrier, which took such a violent dislike to the intellectual faced Marley butler that Sledge was compelled to hold him clear of the floor with one brawny hand and spank him loudly in the ribs with the other, whereupon Bob gave a single yelping promise to be good, and Sledge let him down.

"This is Bob, Miss Molly," introduced Sledge. "I'm sending him right back with Mike, but you said you'd like to see him."

"Delighted to meet you, Bob," laughed Molly, stooping down and patting him on the seamy head.

"I brought these for you myself."

way of friendly greeting, then he suddenly made a lunge of about four feet and strained, choking, at the end of his chain, on his hind feet, with his tongue hanging out. From the rear of the lot he had heard the bark of the suspicious Smash.

Light Year.

The term "light year" is one used by astronomers. It helps the astronomers to enable the layman to get some sort of idea of the distances from us of the celestial bodies, the light year standing for the distance that light travels in twelve months' time.

The Sickly Golf Players.

A golf player who had been badly beaten by his opponent explained to him that he had been suffering all day from neuritis. "It's a curious thing," replied his opponent, "but I've never beaten a man in perfect health in my life."

It is a great misfortune not to have enough wit to speak well or not enough judgment to keep silent.—La Bruyere.

All this done, if she is lucky a number of eligible young bachelors come forward and make offers for her hand and heart, and the match is arranged on a strict cash basis. The preliminaries concluded, the marriage takes place. The bridegroom gives a feast, to which he and his family and the bride and her family all come. On the day after the feast the bridegroom shows his appreciation of his wife by powdering her head and shoulders with fine clay, and once more there is a procession through the streets of the village.

ANALYZING A HAIR.

Science Reads It as Expert Woodsmen Read the Trees.

To the German analyst hair is packed with information. The approximate age and physical condition can be constructed by an examination of a single hair.

The hair of every animal has certain distinguishing characteristics. It is not to be mistaken by a competent investigator. Some animals, as for example the cow, have three types of hair. These will be known by their structure. Under a proper microscopical examination hairs will be as easily distinguished by an expert as varieties of trees in a grove will be distinguished by a forester.

There was a case in which a dagger found on the prisoner had a few short hairs caught entangled in a nick of the blade. He explained this by saying that he had used the dagger to kill a rabbit that he had found trapped in a hedge. The authorities reported to the police, after an examination of the dagger, that the hairs were not of human origin, but they also added they were not rabbit hairs; they were squirrel hairs.

The police were extremely puzzled until they finally discovered that on the night of the homicide the prisoner had worn a great coat trimmed with squirrel fur. He had, in fact, carefullly washed the knife after the assassination, and thereby removed every evidence of his act; but, unfortunately for him, he made the mistake of attempting to dry the dagger by wiping it on the fur lining of his great coat.—

Paint that House this Fall

Protect it from the destructive effect of a winter's snow and ice—save valuable time next spring for other work. Fall painting pays.

But be sure you choose the right paint—one that will give your buildings the years of protection that you've paid for.

B-H "ENGLISH" PAINT

is made according to the formula which scientific tests and many years of experience by practical painters prove to be best to meet Canadian weather conditions.

Formula: 70% Pure White Lead 30% White Zinc
100% Pure Paint

It contains 70% of Brandram's B.B. Genuine White Lead—of standard purity for over 100 years—and 30% of pure white zinc—thus combining, in the proper proportions, pure lead and pure zinc, and making a perfect paint. You take no chances with B-H "English" Paint. Be sure you get it! There are cheaper paints, but none more economical when covering capacity and length of wear are considered.

GREAT LOSSES FROM SMUT.

Affect Grain and Forage Crops and Create Great Annual Loss.

Smuts affecting grain and forage crops cause an annual loss to Kansas farmers of millions of dollars, according to a Kansas agricultural experiment station bulletin by L. E. Melchers, assistant plant pathologist. The estimated loss for 1914 alone was nearly $8,000,000.

The most common and serious diseases affecting the grain and forage crops of Kansas are the so called smuts, points out Mr. Melchers. These diseases are more or less familiar to most farmers, since they occur in all parts of the state wherever such crops as wheat, barley, oats, corn, sorghum and millet are grown. Their importance in the regions where susceptible crops are raised is not generally known, but the loss sustained is enormous when carefully estimated. Collectively they total millions of dollars to the entire state, and individually they appreciably reduce the farmers' margin of profits.

The smut loss in 1914 was divided as follows: Wheat, $3,022,875; corn, $3,000,000; oats, $1,422,423; barley, $80,974; Kaffir, $392,766; broom corn, $12,045, and millet, $12,076.

THE TENT CATERPILLAR.

As soon as small nests are detected they should be destroyed, as this prevents further defoliation of the tree, says a bulletin of the United States department of agriculture. When in convenient reach the nests may be torn out with a brush, with gloved hand or otherwise, and the larvae crushed on the ground, care being taken to destroy any caterpillars which have remained on the tree.

The use of a torch to burn out the nests will be found convenient.

satisfactory making of clover hay, as it is, indeed, for the satisfactory making of any hay, but far more important in the case of the clovers than for timothy on account of the fact that the clovers need much more drying. The best hour in the day for cutting, as it appears to me, is late in the afternoon.

Whatever the hour, it is essential to keep in mind the fact that in the curing of clover hay it should be handled but little after it begins to dry. It is generally well understood that too much handling as the crop dries results in the breaking off of the leaves and heads, which are the most valuable portion of the crop. Whatever the hour of cutting, then, the fact should be kept in mind that this crop should

Use of a torch to burn out the nests will be found convenient when they occur in the higher parts of the tree. In using the torch great care is necessary that no important injury be done to the tree. It should not be used in burning out nests except in the smaller branches and twigs, the killing of which would be of no special importance. Nests in the larger limbs should be destroyed by hand, as the use of the torch may kill the bark, resulting in permanent injury.

Tent caterpillars are readily destroyed by arsenicals on the foliage of trees infested by them. Any of the arsenical insecticides may be used, as paris green, arsenate of lead, etc., but on stone fruits arsenicals are likely to cause injury to foliage and must be used with caution, if at all.

CURING CLOVER HAY.

Some Timely Advice as to the Best Modern Methods.

So many farmers have a wrong idea of curing clover hay that the following advice of Director Brooks of the Massachusetts station is timely: Good weather is essential for the hour of cutting, then, the fact should be kept in mind that this crop should be tedded but little in curing. If cut late in the afternoon the crop may be tedded once the following afternoon.

If the weather is particularly fine it will then be ready to rake and put into cocks late in the afternoon of the same day. If the clover is curing more slowly it may be best to leave it in windrows over one night and to turn these carefully with the fork the next forenoon and to cock on the afternoon of the second day after cutting.

The use of hay caps in curing clover hay should be more general. It is desirable to leave the clover in the cock for a number of days, sometimes as long as a week. The hay is coarse, and if exposed to rain it is badly damaged unless the cocks are protected by caps. When examination shows that the clover in the cock is apparently cured it should be slightly opened and turned up from the bottom on the forenoon of a good day.

It will then be ready to put in in the afternoon. Clover hay cured in this manner should hold substantially all its leaves and heads and should cure of a bright green color. Such clover is one of the most valuable forage crops, whether for cattle, sheep or horses. Well cured clover hay, popular opinion to the contrary notwithstanding, is a safe and valuable food for horses, which will need much less grain when fed such hay than timothy hay is used.

Cold Water Always Ready.

Those whose homes are supplied with running water and who keep ice can have cold water always ready by running the water through the ice box, says the Household. Coil the water pipe around and around until it fits the bottom of the box. Make two holes in the ice box, one in the back and one in the front. The pipe in the back runs down under the floor and connects with the water pipe under the kitchen. The pipe in front terminates in a faucet. Make another hole in the floor in front directly under the faucet. Run a pipe through it, and fit a funnel in the top for a drain. This equipment costs little, and a man can put it in after work hours.

Dust Gooseberries With Lime.

Gooseberries dusted with lime early in the morning while the foliage is wet with dew will check the work of caterpillars.

Formaldehyde Solution Best For Treating the Seed Tubers.

The spore or germ of potato scab is carried on the seed, thus infecting the next crop. The spores will also live in the soil, and for that reason a field that has grown scabby potatoes should not be planted with the same crop for a few years.

Lime and manure do not cause scab, as some suppose, but they do produce conditions in the soil that favor the development of scab. It is best to apply lime or limestone after the potato crop has been harvested. Manure will do less injury if applied the year before.

W. L. Slate of the Connecticut Agricultural college suggests that not only the potatoes should be treated for scab, but also all bags, boxes, baskets or pails that are to contain the seed after treating, by sprinkling them with formaldehyde solution.

The formaldehyde solution (formalin 40 per cent) is the best for treating the seed potatoes. Make up a solution at the rate of one pint of formalin to thirty gallons of water. Soak the uncut seed for two hours. It is best to treat seed potatoes just before planting time so they may be cut immediately after soaking.

STRAWBERRY CULTURE.

There are two general cultural methods of handling strawberries. One is to cultivate them clean throughout the year, and the other is to mulch them lightly with straw during the winter and plow this under after the fruit has been picked next spring.

When clean cultivation is used the cultivation is discontinued during the hayvesting season in order to facilitate picking. Some growers grow the berries in hills, while some grow them in a matted row. It is difficult to say which is best, as both have good success. The great advantage of the straw mulch is that it gives the berries something to lie on and keeps them out of the dirt and enables one to pick them when the ground is fairly wet and adds organic matter to the soil.

Every year after the picking season it is necessary to cut out a great many of the plants, as they will have covered the ground pretty well by that time. This is usually done by throwing a furrow away from each side of the row and then working it back immediately. This leaves the matted row from which the plants may be removed if they are too thick. It is usually thought most profitable to renew the planting every three or four years. —Oklahoma Station.

If soup is dished in the kitchen teach her to bring in the plates not more than two at the time on a tray. Have the large service plates in place and let her place the soup plates in them from the left hand. In removing they are taken one at the time, not piled, also from the left. Everything is served from the left hand, as it is more convenient in every way. A point you should insist upon is that she be very careful not to touch the edges of any dish with her thumb in passing, and the way to avoid this is to have a tray upon which dishes with vegetables may be carried, a serving spoon or fork, or both, in each dish.

Teach her to have the glasses filled before guests are seated; also to have the bread either on a bread tray or a slice or roll within the fold of the napkin. Salt and pepper casters as well as coasters for iced tea glasses, bread and butter plates, spreaders, spoons, knife and fork, etc., all should be in place. This relieves her and makes for a quiet, pleasant meal.

In removing all plates and dishes after serving they should not be piled nor placed noisily within hearing. Crumbs are to be removed with a napkin in her hand on to a plate held in her left hand. Dessert is served from the left. After dinner coffee is placed at the right hand with sugar and cream, if liked. If large cups of coffee are served with the meal they should be placed at the right hand from a tray with the greatest care not to spill any in the saucers.

Many women select all white for maids, but the striped blue or gray and white or plain blue with small white apron and a tiny cap are a good choice. If a maid must help in the kitchen the big apron covering her entire dress is easily slipped off before entering the dining room.

Wise Precaution.

In making up wash materials one always has to take into consideration the fact that the fabric may shrink after washing. If you wish to avoid undoing the hem in order to lengthen it again try this method: Before you hem the bottom of the skirt run a tuck in the hem on the wrong side. Sew this tuck with long stitches nearly at the top of the hem, then finish the hem as usual, taking care not to take stitches of the tuck with the hemming. If the skirt shrinks it is a matter of a few moments to rip the long stitches and let it down without undoing the hem.

For Afternoons.

Colored print dresses are quaintly embellished by roll over collars of white muslin with colored hemstitched border.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W. S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

THERE are two great obstacles to preventive medicine which is the real medicine, and these are poverty and ignorance. The greatest cause of poverty—that is, real downright need—is sickness. Sickness causes at least one-third of the world's poverty. Several other things, including alcohol, account for the other two-thirds.

Money in the form of higher wages helps in a large measure to obviate poverty and the sickness which oftentimes, lies at its door. Perhaps the most noted Health man in America at the present time is Colonel (Dr.)

PREVENTION OF DISEASE

Gorgas, the man whose energies succeeded in making the Panama Zone inhabitable by white people. Colonel Gorgas asserts that two diseases carried by the mosquito—Malaria and Yellow Fever—drove the white man from the easy living tropics to the inclement north. His enterprise is allowing him to return there. He asserts further (for, like all public health men, his assertions are marked by personal modesty) that the Panama Canal project was made feasible by the fact that the workmen there were paid the highest wages of any place in America. Money may be an evil. It sometimes is; but it has its good uses. The other great foe of public health advancement is ignorance; that is, want of knowledge of what is good for one's health. This column is out against ignorance of this character.

The writer hopes that everyone who sees this paper will read this column. Especially is it desired that the children shall become interested in it, for they, after all, are the portion of the population who are most susceptible to education. The older ones, more set in their ways, will not perhaps take all that is set down here as gospel—although it more nearly approaches gospel than anything else found outside the Good Book—but the children will perhaps gain some good from it. By the way, there is some good public health advice, none better, found in the Old Testament: read Exodus and Leviticus.

Following an outbreak of communicable disease in a home the room occupied by the sick person should be thoroughly cleaned. The floors should be scrubbed with soap and hot water and the walls wiped with a solution of 1 in 2,000 bichloride of mercury, carbolic acid, or cresol 1 in 20. Unless the circumstances seem to the Medical Officer of Health to demand it the room need not be fumigated by means of formaldehyde or sulphur.

It is well known that outbreaks of diphtheria and other diseases, including scarlet fever, cerebro-spinal meningitis and typhoid fever, are influenced by carriers," persons who are quite well and have not recently suffered from the diseases, but who convey disease to others. This is very often the reason of the obscure origin of serious epidemics. Numerous investigators have found diphtheria bacilli in the throat and nose of from one to four per cent. of healthy persons. Among the scarlet fever patients in the Willard Parker Hospital, New York, 4.5 per cent. of diphtheria carriers were found, and in one-half of these the bacteria were virulent, as shown by reaction in guinea pigs. No local treatment is entirely satisfactory in exterminating the germs of the disease. Some of the persistent cases were those with deep pockets in the tonsils, and the complete removal of these tonsils usually give satisfactory results. Carriers of diphtheria bacilli do not themselves contract diphtheria, but they are a common source of trouble to others.

QUESTIONS.

A.B.: Q.—How shall I get rid of vermin in a child's head?

A.—The hair should be washed with soap and warm water, dried, and then soaked in gasoline or coal oil with a towel tied about the head over night. Next morning the hair should be carefully combed with a fine-tooth comb dipped in acetic acid or vinegar to remove the nits. One, or at most two treatments like this will usually clean the matter up.

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Q.—How much Antitoxin is safe to give to a child seven years old?

A.—The quantity of Diphtheria Antitoxin required for any case depends upon the severity of the case. There is practically no danger from any quantity from 5,000 to 30,000 units. Don't hesitate to use plenty of it. It is supplied free by the Provincial Board of Health.

Our County Fair.

For over half a century, people have looked forward each fall to the Lennox Fair, knowing that it would be one of the best in the province. This year more than ever, expectations are high because of several new features to be added. The "Rural School Children's Department" promises, judging from the entries and enquiries, to be a popular feature. 80 cash prizes will be given in this competition which should ensure a large exhibit. The decorated automobile parade is also a new feature and should be a great attraction. We understand the competition will be keen. All the regular features will be continued, efforts being made to make them excel all previous records. You will notice that the prizes for trotting and all speeding on the ring have been largely increased. This should induce some of our best breeders to show. An effort is on foot to move the exhibition buildings up to the park, lack of funds stands in the way. This year, it is hoped that the patronage will be so great that even this lack will be overcome, and to this end every effort is being made to make 1916 fair the best ever.

Holland—Paul Wedding.

A real camp wedding was celebrated at high noon on Saturday last, 26th inst., at "Wegowylde," the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Paul, at Camp Sans Souci, Bay of Quinte. The day left nothing to be desired and augured well for the future happiness of two of Napanee's popular young people. The sun shone brightly, and the summer home, transformed into a bower of cedars and pine, whose sweet fragrance filled the air, overlooking Bay of Quinte, peaceful and calm, presented a very pretty appearance, while gentle breezes wafted among the trees and shrubs, the sweet notes of many a wild song bird. At high noon, the bridegroom, Robert Frances Holland, waited for his bride, Edna Marion Paul, under a canopy of cedars decorated with golden glow. Gowned in a white silk midly with white cordarois skirt, leaning on the arm of her father, the bride, beaming and modest, passed through the line of invited guests to the altar. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles E.
Cragg, B.A., and afterwards the bride and groom and wedding guests signed the commemorative record. An elaborate and dainty wedding breakfast was served, with the Misses Muriel Paul and Florence Stevens, of Napanea, and Mrs. Douglas Carter, of Pictou, serving. The bride received many beautiful and costly presents, testifying to her popularity and the high esteem in which she and the groom are held. The bride and groom left Camp Sans Souci by automobile appropriately decorated with old shoes and confetti, mingled with good wishes from the guests to spend their honeymoon at Bobcaygen and the 1000 Islands. The guests present included, Mrs. Holland and Messrs.
Norman and Harry Hollrud of Toronto, Mrs. L. D. Williams, and Miss Williams, of Camden East, Miss Flo Williams, of New York, Messrs. Grant
Paul and Roy Root, Mrs. J. L. Madill, Dr. and Mrs. E. Ming, Mr. and Mrs.
J. H. S. Derry and Mr. and Mrs. U.
M. Wilson, of Napanea, and Mr. Douglas Carter, of Pictou. The Express extends congratulations.

Since last week's issue a personal letter has been received from Lady Drummond to Mrs. Harshaw, thanking the Chapter and Committee on her own behalf for their generous donation of personal property bags, which she speaks of as such pretty little bags, and so useful; also expressing her thanks and telling us of the very great appreciation shown by wounded Canadian soldiers for the papers we have sent them through Lady Drummond.

A convenor has been appointed to attend to this matter exclusively, and all those desiring to contribute will kindly bring their papers of recent date to our rooms on Thursday afternoons where they will be taken charge of and mailed in time for Saturday's steamer. This service is one in which almost everyone can help.

Now that the holidays are over it is hoped all our workers will put renewed energy into the autumn work.

The room is open as heretofore, each Thursday and Saturday afternoon un-

Colonel Noel Marshall, of Toronto, on his visit to France, in the interests of the Canadian Red Cross, was specially received by Monsieur Poincaire, President of the French Republic, who desired Colonel Marshall to convey to the people of Canada, on behalf of himself and the people of France, their heartfelt thanks for the generosity which Canada has shown them.

Colonel Marshall also tells us that he has made definite arrangements for the shipping of 5,000 cases of Red Cross goods per month to about 1000 needy French hospitals. These hospitals welcome all kinds of hospital garments, such as shirts, socks, pyjamas, dressing gowns, and surgical gauze by the yard, and cotton in rolls rather than made into dressings.

The coming months will be busy ones at our workroom, and let us all take the responsibility and work with keener interest than ever, eventually sharing in the blessings that come from doing good to those who so badly need it.

We have received many post cards this week from prisoners-of-war thanking us for the parcels sent them, and saying how much they were appreciated.

A most interesting letter was received last week from Mrs. W. H. Wilkison, of Switzerland, thanking the Society for the Life Membership Pin sent to her. She tells us there are 15,000 prisoners-of-war in Switzerland, many of whom are Canadians. Mrs. Wilkison visited a number of them and kindly administered to their wants.

Our room will be open all day Saturday as usual; in the afternoon refreshments will be served.

ANMER, KING'S HORSE AT THE EXHIBITION

Famous Stallion that Killed Suffragette to be Paraded Each Day.

Anmer, the famous stallion, which His Majesty, King George, has sent to Canada for the purpose of improving the breed for remount purposes, will, by the consent of the Thoroughbred Horse Society and the Dominion Government, be shown and paraded each day at the Canadian National Exhibition. This is the horse which trampled a Suffragette to death in the Derby race of 1913, when she threw herself on the track as the horses swept down the stretch. It was her way of drawing attention to the "Cause."

"Anmer" was selected from the Royal stud by Lord Marcus Peresford as the horse most suitable for service in Canada.
